Superintendent visits

French courses looked over

By Carol Dietrich

A small group of parents met with Parkland County Superintendent of Schools Marv Tkachuk April 24 to discuss French instruction in Drayton Valley schools.

"We're a bilingual country and when our children enter the work force they will be exposed to the two languages," said Tkachuk.

Drayton Valley runs one of the three possible strands of French instruction — Grades 10 to 12 courses, he said.

"It gives them little in terms of practical use."

The second strand in the province is the six-year program which runs from Grades 6 to 12 and the third one is the nine-year program which begins in Grade 4.

"The greatest possibility exists in the nine-year program."

There are several necessary elements in running the program successfully, including parent support, system support and school support.

"At this point we don't think the six-year program will catch." At that age students are subject to a lot of peer pressure and don't want to be different, Tkachuk said.

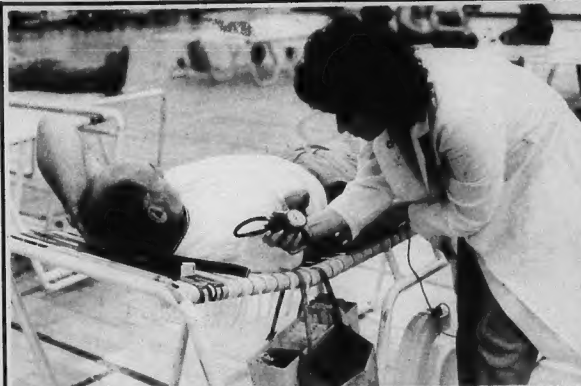

One parent asked if after nine years, a child could converse in French. "An English-speaking teacher in Stony Plain who went through the program said after a week in a French environment, she had no trouble," Tkachuk said.

French instruction has changed over the years, he said. "In past years the time was almost totally devoted to translation, but now the majority of time is spent on speaking and listening skills."

If the number of parents interested in the program is small, there is another option available, Tkachuk added.

"Another possibility is a summer school immersion (program)." It would cost about $40 for two weeks, he said.

To determine the amount of interest in broadening the French program in Drayton Valley, Tkachuk and Elementary 'B' school principal Elson Keown will carry out a survey and distribute it to parents.

said organizer Hy Dahl. "One hundred and sixty two units of blood were collected." The clinics are run locally twice a year.

Senior Games meeting planned

The executive director of Sport Alberta plans to meet Drayton Valley representatives regarding next year's Alberta Senior Games.

Max Gibb told The Western Review that he had talked to Mayor Bob Mayhew about some of the finances for the July 18-20 games and would be meeting with the mayor and the host committee in the next week to 10 days.

The town, who is the official host for the senior games, is asking Sport Alberta for additional funds.

Gibb confirms that talks he has had with the town concerns a second $25,000 legacy and the possibility of picking up a $65,000 bill for food and accommodation. The $65,000 is the difference between costs at Camrose last year and estimated costs for the Drayton Valley games.

"We're sure everything will work out," Gibb remarked.

Problems, he says, are not unique to the games.

For example, transportation costs are a big factor for the August summer games at Fort McMurray.

"Everything always works out. Nothing is insurmountable," Gibb added.

Ratepayers found group

Committee supports new county

By Phil Courterelle

A group of local ratepayers have formed a committee to push for the creation of a new, Drayton Valley-based municipality.

Called the Yes Group, Joint Committee of Western Ratepayers, the organization will call on residents affected in Parkland, Leduc and Wetaskiwin counties to voice support for creating a new county, the committee's interim chairman, Bob Booth says.

The group met for the first time April 17 in Drayton Valley and has sent a letter to Municipal Affairs Minister Julian Kozak outlining their position and urging full co-operation between the government and local residents.

According to Booth, administrative head of the Alberta West Central Health Unit in Drayton Valley, the committee wants to "re-activate" past supporters — such as Hank Shimbashi, Dean Meraw and William Dusterhoft who've spearheaded previous attempts to have a county established around Drayton Valley — and set as a "vehicle" of representation for other ratepayers involved.

The committee was formed in response to the provincial government's municipal feasibility study, now underway and expected to be completed either late May or early June. The study, being conducted by the policy and research division of the Department of Municipal Affairs, will outline only the financial viability of a new municipality based on specific study areas and tax assessments.

The study, the second in some 10 years, creates a unique situation for local politicians, Booth says.

Politicians at the county, town and provincial level "must view the situation at arm's length and most of them have to be very careful what they say about it (a new county being formed) — pro or con," Booth said.

The Yes Group, however, will be able to openly voice its concerns to the government, he explained.

"If we don't stand up now, we'll never see this become a reality," he said.

"The time has come...and it's probably long overdue for us to be taking our destiny into our own hands."

Booth and the Yes Group are adamant a new county should be formed around Drayton Valley but want to stress the positive areas of such a move rather than the negative.

"There's a lot of ways to look at it," Booth said. "As chairman of this group the one thing I don't want to do is have the group deal with the negatives."

Woolsey handed walking papers

Dennis Woolsey, Drayton Valley's recreation director for the past two-and-a-half years, was handed his 'walking papers' Monday morning.

Woolsey, who called the unexpected move surprising, was called into the town manager's office at 11 a.m. Monday and told of the move.

The decision to let Woolsey go was made during a weekend meeting of town council.

"He wasn't able to work within the job description," Mayor Bob Mayhew stated, in describing the decision to let Woolsey go.

"I don't want to get into the reasons. It doesn't matter at this time," Mayhew added.

Town manager Manny Deol will be the acting recreation director until a replacement is hired.

Woolsey, who didn't elaborate on the decision, said he was given a list of reasons.

New municipality

"When you look at it (forming a new municipality) it presents a lot of exciting and interesting ideas.

"I like to look at it as the opportunity to create a super county. We can take a look at other counties in the province and take all the good things and leave all the bad," he said, referring to the structuring of the proposed municipality.

"Some of those counties are now locked into a system they'd like to change but can't."

Another reason for creating the county, Booth admits, is possible misrepresentation by having more councillors in the east end of Parkland County than in the west.

"In a more selfish vein, I feel the way things are right now, is that we've elected a lot of good men to go to Stony Plain (the county seat)...but before the job even starts it's impossible.

"There's seven men in Stony Plain and we have only two. It makes it very, very difficult."

A motion by the provincial government to increase Parkland County Council by adding two council seats to the east end adds to the group's concern, he said.

Cancer ride this weekend

The second annual Ride Against Cancer will be held this weekend sponsored by the Sun Valley Equestrian Centre.

Organizers have about 80 registered riders for the event which raised some $3,800 last year for cancer research.

This year, organizers are hoping for more riders and to double 1984's donations.

The ride will begin Sunday morning at Cecil Anderson's ranch along the Pembina River valley southwest of Drayton Valley. A short morning ride will be followed by a light lunch and then a longer afternoon ride and dinner.

According to organizer Michelle Urchysyn, the ride still needs volunteers to help arrange the start/finish areas and the meals.

For more information, contact Urchysyn.

Makin company still reviewing mill site

Makin Pulp and Paper Ltd. is reviewing its plans to locate a proposed $112 million mill in Alberta, let alone Drayton Valley, the company's vice-president said Friday.

In a telephone interview from his Calgary office, Stewart Behie said the province's environment regulations for pulp mills are "the most stringent in North America and possibly the world," and have forced the company to re-evaluate its proposal to see "if it is even viable to go ahead with the project."

"We've had to back up and reassess the climate in Alberta (and) ask ourselves if it is even going to be possible to put in any mill in this province."

He added the government has "started to impose regulations...that will make it very difficult for anyone to do anything in this zone (The Brazeau Timber Development Area)."

Behie's chief concern was over the government's changing policies towards pulp mill effluents.

"The government had major regulations in place and we were meeting those regulations," Behie said. "But now they are coming back and having doubts of whether their own criteria are good enough."

He criticized the government for "not putting its rules on the table" at public hearings several years ago regarding conditions for effluents flowing into the North Saskatchewan River, which is a water source for Drayton Valley and the City of Edmonton.

The province is currently reviewing a clear water permit the Calgary-based company has applied for although no decision will be made until a forest management agreement (FMA) has been reached, said Paul Shewchuk, head of a water quality branch for Alberta Environment's standards and approvals division.

Makin will also have to supply an Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) before proceeding with its plans, but like the clear water permit, the request for an EIA won't be made until an FMA is in place — a crucial step that has not begun pending the outcome of financial evaluations.

Part of the difficulty, Behie said, was the government may be "uncomfortable" in dealing with a mill proposal like Makin's, which advocates a different technology than mills already working in Alberta.

According to Shewchuk, the proposal must undergo environmental evaluations at the construction stage and before the actual processing plant is given license to operate. Effluents leaving the plant and entering into the North Saskatchewan will also have to be evaluated as well as the company's capabilities of treating effluents on site.

Through the EIA, which is undertaken by Makin, the company must also notify the City of Edmonton of its plans to treat and inject effluents into the North Saskatchewan River.

Edmonton officials voiced concern over any mill operation downstream of the city's water intake system at the public hearings held in Drayton Valley.

City officials have come under heavy criticism in recent weeks for reportedly high levels of hydrocarbons in the North Saskatchewan water supply, although Shewchuk said the concerns are raised every spring and are due to annual runoffs.

Opinions

McGee spending time on local concerns

Tom McGee isn't getting a lot of work done these days, at least not at his new clothing store in Drayton Valley.

Much of McGee's time is being spent on taxpayers' problems. If you're a taxpayer, one has to be impressed with the stand often taken by the sophomore councillor.

At last week's town council meeting McGee raised the question of local contractors getting a chance on the jobs at the new senior citizens' complex.

Prior to that, the 26-year Drayton Valley resident has gone to bat over the dog issue and interest on the town's water meter rental scheme.

When McGee isn't asking questions in council on behalf of the taxpayers, he always seems to be working for their best interests in the community. He spends a great deal of his time, business and private life on the new economic development committee, the health unit and the recreation board.

One of his 'pet projects' these days is downtown cleanup.

McGee doesn't mind his business life being interrupted by the taxpayer.

"I don't mind it. They let me know what's going on in town," he comments.

Since going into the clothing business with his wife and mother, McGee has seen his phone and front doorbell ring steady.

Being available to the public is part of the councillor's new life, and he's loving every minute of it.

If you have a problem, either one that demands immediate action or one that can be taken to council chambers, see Tom McGee. His record is impressive.

Ice flow

The recent warm weather seems like a blessing to many but for this pier at Buck Lake, it hasn't been so kind. Moving ice has definitely gotten the best out of it.

If you're planning a meeting, call the paper first

There seems to be a meeting in Drayton Valley every night of the week. Some we know about, others we're never informed about.

Meetings are held at the Elks Hall, Legion, Amoco Safety Hall, Scout Hall, local hotels, churches, etc. Many more meetings are held at Winfield, Breton, Alder Flats, Buck Lake, Buck Creek, Lindale, Carnwood, Berrymore, Lodgepole, Cynthia, Tomahawk, Whitby, Moon Lake, Evansburg, Seba Beach, Entwistle, Wildwood, etc.

We'd like to hear about those meetings before they happen. In some cases we can do an advance story that may help to get a better turnout.

If the meeting warrants it a reporter from The Western Review would attend.

To inform us of a meeting or to arrange coverage, call me at 542-5380.

It's very frustrating to learn, after the paper comes out Wednesday, that a big meeting was held the night before that we didn't know about.

Editor's Notes

While most of the meetings we cover result in an article in The Western Review, I'm interested from a volunteer standpoint. Getting involved has always been my way of life.

We've offered what little spare time we have to some groups, but there hasn't been many takers.

If you're doing any cooking, it might be a good idea to take your rings, earrings, etc., off.

The following ad appeared in the Taber paper last week.

"Anyone finding a pearl earring as of Tuesday, April 2/85 in any Dutch Bakery product (especially bread or buns) please contact the bakery. A reward of a $20 black forest cake is offered."

You may ask, as I did, was this for real or a promotional trick to sell more bread and buns? Whatever, it likely did result in more sales.

Ray Meredith, branch manager for the Bank of Montreal in Drayton Valley for the past two years, has been transferred to the Rimbey branch.

Road maps used to be free. Last week we spotted the same map selling for 75 cents in Drayton Valley and $1.75 at a gas/ coffee shop on Highway 16.

We've discovered another Montreal Canadiens fan in town. Mike Koebernick, well known in hockey and fastball circles, doesn't make any excuses for being a Hab fan. In fact, if you were to call Mike during a hockey game he would refuse to answer the phone. That's loyalty.

Summer promises to be busy

Recreation department gearing up

By Dennis Woolley

The Town of Drayton Valley recreation department is busily preparing themselves for the upcoming summer season.

Our primary responsibilities during this season is the development of our spring-summer pool schedule and our parks development and maintenance program. During this period we also try to get a head start on planning for fall scheduling relating to school-use and preparing for the new arena season.

Our pool summer schedule will be published in forthcoming issues of The Western Review and will be available through the summer recreation brochure which will be distributed early next week door-to-door in town. Anyone wishing copies of the pool schedule may pick them up at the pool later next week.

Complete Red Cross programs, as well as ongoing fitness and non-structured leisure swim programs will be made available throughout the summer months. For more information please contact the pool at 542-5749 or the recorded message at 542-4679.

The town's recreation brochure, which has been distributed in Drayton Valley on a regular basis during the summer, fall and winter over the last two years is, we hope, becoming something that people are beginning to look forward to receiving.

We attempt to bring to you information on local organizations to help them publicize their group's operations and to help you, the general public.

This brochure provides information on seasonal schedules for town facilities, as well as fees and charges and other data which we believe local residents wish to know.

In addition to this we attempt to bring to you information on local organizations to help them publicize their group's operations and to help you, the general public, become aware of the many services and programs which are made available during the year. Should you have any suggestions on what could be added to make the brochure of more benefit to you, the recreation department is interested in hearing from you.

Most people are aware that three new ball diamonds are being constructed in Lions' West

"An exciting possibility"

Drayton Valley county proposal presents possibilities

By Cecil Dawkins

The renewed proposals for a county based upon Drayton Valley raises interesting issues for the area, and in the long term affords an exciting possibility of serving the growing needs of the new lands to the west. All of this is presently under study by the Policy and Research section of the Alberta Department of Municipal Affairs.

At the same time, a far-reaching review of the County Act itself is currently being undertaken, which may well result in significant changes which impact directly on Parkland County, and indeed, on any new structure that may be proposed for Drayton Valley. There is also pressure upon Parkland County from the east end of the county where city status for Spruce Grove is a live option.

Since constructive change is one of the marks of life in the present day structures of society, we would appear both locally and provincially to be living in a particularly dynamic period of reconstruction. Though much of the change is institutional and of little direct interest to the average citizen, some of the changes proposed in the review of the County Act do impact directly upon the citizens.

The most serious current problem with the County Act lies in the relationships between the county councils and their related school boards. This is carefully addressed in the new proposals, and if passed, would certainly affect Parkland County, the board of education, town representation on that board and the electors.

The new proposals would drastically cut the size of the board of education from 18 to a total of not more than nine. Restrictions are proposed on the number of councillors who could serve on the board of education and on the number of trustees elected to represent the urban populations.

By improving the status of trustees and reducing the size of the board, a less cumbersome Valley Park, south of the rodeo facilities.

Ball groups are anxiously awaiting the completion of these diamonds, as there has been a real shortage in recent years with the strong advancement of minor ball and the initiation of sloppitch to our community, which has an indication of growing significantly with more facilities being made available. The three diamonds under construction are expected to be completed by the end of next week, weather permitting.

Work remaining to be done is the final landscaping of the diamond closest to the highway and peripheral areas, seeding of the three diamonds and final construction and meshing of the middle diamond.

After this, final mixing and compacting of the infields will be undertaken to prepare the diamonds for use starting May 15. Ball groups have been made aware of this starting date and are fully expecting to begin taking advantage of them.

In addition to ball diamond construction, the town's park staff will be busy preparing parks and boulevards for upcoming use as well.

After this date, some improvements will continue, such as dugouts being built and batting cages being constructed. Local groups are proposing to undertake these projects.

To date, the majority of work has been completed by the town but assistance has been supplied by local groups and businesses. Minor ball has been the most significant contributor, along with Dave Sluchinski of men's fastball. They, through their efforts, have obtained tubing for the diamonds as well as aiding in the set up and meshing of two of the diamonds.

Through the supply of materials by the Royal Canadian Legion and local oil companies, the majority of structural equipment has been obtained. It is a pleasure to have had such a favorable response from them, but I think it is important to indicate the significant contributions from town staff — equipment and supplies have been required to have the diamonds gain the level of completion status that they are in today.

In addition to ball diamond construction, the town's park staff will be busy preparing parks and boulevards for upcoming use as well.

From regular garbage pickup to pruning trees, sweeping areas, painting facilities and equipment, supplying new sand and setting out picnic tables and benches, the park staff will be very busy readying themselves for the mowing season, which takes up so much of their time later in the spring and on into the summer. The parks staff also hope to improve a number of parks spaces over the summer through the erection of new sports standards, clearing of brush on park spaces and generally improving some of the land-scaping on some parks.

The town's recreation department foresees a very busy period ahead in preparing our town for the upcoming summer season, as well as providing improvements for local people to enjoy. With any luck, the weather will improve so that this work may begin in earnest, but more importantly, so that you, the public, may enjoy the facilities, parks and programs which we develop for you. Have a good summer!

and more effective board of education could well result. Furthermore, towns could elect additional representatives as their populations grow, there would be no rotation of voting rights, and the trustees would be more clearly responsible to their particular electorate.

Of interest to the Drayton Valley community and its surrounding rural and unimproved areas is the possibility of the town and the surrounding areas being combined to form a single administrative rural urban county structure. Such an approach would seem to have advantages wherever a large town is surrounded by sparsely populated areas which have a potentially high industrial tax base.

Inevitably, any proposals for change will also stimulate resistance to change. Yet looking 50 years ahead makes it clear that the current structures are going to prove inadequate. Changes to the County Act, if approved by the legislature, and a careful review of this area's needs suggest new possibilities for better local government and the placing of that government closer to the people it exists to serve.

Amoco cleanup

Ventures and scouts from Drayton Valley took to cleaning the site of the new Amoco building Saturday to help raise funds for their trip to the Canadian Scout Jamboree this summer. The venture group was approached by the construction contractor to clean the site in exchange for a donation. According to venture leader Paul Spurrell, the work will take a few days longer to complete. Four local ventures and two scouts will attend the jamboree July 3 to 12 at Guelph, Ont. and then spend the remainder of July travelling southern Ontario before returning to Alberta.

Town approves hours

The Town of Drayton Valley plans to spend more money on dog control.

Council rubber stamped a proposal last Thursday that calls for the dogcatcher to work 32 hours per week, every alternate week. On alternating weeks the dogcatcher will re-pond to calls on a per-call basis.

Complaints about dogs should be called to the town office at 542-5327.

The town is looking at costs of $18 per hour for regular patrols and $20 per call received on alternating weeks. "This will cost us more," voiced Councilor Howard Olsen.

"It won't solve the problem, but it might improve the situation," he added.

The town is expected to follow this course of action for the next two months.

Group boxes planned

Postal boxes at a premium

There's a waiting list for box rental at the Drayton Valley post office.

Postmaster LeRoy Robinson says there are 30 names on a waiting list.

According to Robinson, this is a healthy sign for the Drayton Valley economy.

"We have more people coming in than are going," Robinson stated.

While the waiting list for box rentals is not as great as other years, it is encouraging.

In all, the post office offers 2,852 box rentals and Robinson says unless the post office expands, there isn't a lot of room for more mail boxes.

While a lot of people go to the Drayton Valley post office for their mail, group boxes are very popular. Since 1981, 700 group mail boxes have been established in town and there are plans to extend this service.

Robinson says the post office is looking at offering the group boxes in the Aspen View area behind St. Anthony School. Once 50 per cent of the homes in any one area are occupied, the post office looks at offering group boxes.

But some people don't like the group boxes. The Drayton Valley postmaster reports people who must supply their own locks for the boxes often leave them unlocked. Mail cannot be left in the unlocked boxes. That means extra work for the post office and unnecessary frustration for the group box holder.

It will be quite a while before Drayton Valley gets door-to-door service, as a population between 12,000 to 15,000 is required.

Two teams tie for first place

After the first week of play in the Drayton Valley Ball Hockey League, two teams are tied for the lead.

Both the Rowdies and the Blackhawks chalked up a pair of wins. The Rowdies downed White 12-2 and defeated the Oilers 7-3, while the Blackhawks downed the Redskins

8-3 and handed Grey a 10-6 setback.

In other games last week Grey blanked White 5-0 and the Oilers edged the Redskins 5-4.

Games are played every Tuesday and Thursday night in the Centennial Civic Arena at 6:30 p.m., 8 p.m. and 9:30 p.m.

Saturday and Sunday sponsored by the local minor ball association.

Baseball clinic highly successful

Spring means flowers, green grass and, of course, baseball.

And for about 60 players and coaches, the local season began last Saturday at a baseball clinic designed to improve player fundamentals and coaching techniques.

While organizers had expected only about 35 players to attend the clinic, more than 50 showed up.

Organized by the local minor ball association, the clinic was instructed by Orv Franchuk, who runs several spring clinics around the province — including a three-week stint at Edmonton's John Ducey Park — and is founder of the Canadian Professional Baseball School.

The clinic also featured instructors John Belmont from the University of Alberta and Alberta Baseball Association (ABA) technical staff member Dale Rurka.

For local players and coaches, the clinic was a chance to prepare for the beginning season. For Franchuk, the clinic was another opportunity to put "something back into the game" he's been involved with all his life.

Quoting a well-known sportscaster from a late-night sitcom, Franchuk said, "Baseball has been very good to me and I hope I can put something back into the game."

"I hope I can keep doing what I'm doing now (instructing clinics), helping these young kids and giving something back into the system."

A product of the Lac La Biche area, Franchuk earned a baseball scholarship to Pepperdine University in the United States and was later brought into the Cincinnati Reds organization as a talent scout. He's coached Canada's national entry into the World Baseball Championships for four years and has been an ABA technical director for the last seven. Franchuk also does color commentary for the Edmonton Trappers.

He founded the Canadian Professional Baseball School four years ago.

Coaches and players will get the opportunity for more clinics in the future as organizers with the local minor ball association hope to make the spring clinic an annual affair.

Soccer begins May 7

by Frank Ryan

Minor ball in Drayton Valley is quite concerned about their numbers.

Between 150 and 160 kids have signed up for the 1985 season compared to 350 youngsters who played in the program last summer.

Hopefully, more kids will come out once the teams take to the fields.

The minor ball executive is attempting to acquire diamonds on nights when soccer isn't being played, so kids up to 11 years-of-age can play both sports.

What's happening with the Drayton Valley Blades junior 'B' hockey club???

They were 'no shows' at last week's ice user meeting. Are they going to ice a club for the 1985-86 season???

It's rather unfortunate the recreation board or town council couldn't scrape up $500 to assist minor soccer.

President Simon Kelly approached the recreation board last month requesting $500 to go towards the purchase of paint for the soccer fields.

The town owns the fields but don't have their own line machine. So soccer went out and purchased their own machine and this year decided to ask the town for some help.

But they were turned down.

In most of these instances the recreation board and town council are finding themselves caught in the middle. They're damned if they do and damned if they don't.

But in some cases, they have to support minor sports in town. Soccer would be a good place to start.

Still with soccer, we understand three new fields are on the drafting board for McKenzie Park. The town is expected to put in the fields and erect the posts with the soccer bunch to paint the lines.

Drayton Valley town council is talking about a two-price system for the Park Valley Swimming Pool. This will be for County of Leduc residents who come into town to use the sports facility.

Town council has approached the county for funds to assist with the $100,000 deficit, but if nothing is forthcoming by June 1 the two-price system may be started.

It will be interesting to see how the town will monitor the idea.

Curling

Land for sale

The Drayton Valley Curling Club plans to put on their thinking caps this week as they prepare for a new six-sheet facility.

President Alex Salfi says a think-tank session will be held this week to discuss fundraising ideas.

The club has decided to proceed with plans for a new six-sheet curling rink. They would like to build the proposed $500,000 to $600,000 facility at West Valley Park.

"We will be looking at raising at least $100,000 and that could climb to $250,000," Salfi says.

The land where the existing club is located will be offered to the town and also to the provincial government.

"We turned down an offer from the province for the property two years ago," Salfi admits. "Maybe we should've accepted that offer. Now we're dealing with different people."

The curling club hopes to build the new facility with money from their land deal downtown and with financial help from the Drayton Valley Lions Club and the agricultural people. Fundraising will make up a big part of the total cost.

The group behind a second ice facility have offered their support to the curling rink. Plans are to design the curling rink so that an ice facility could be added at a later date.

But, first things first.

After their think-tank session, the curlers plan to approach the town. They need town approval to build at West Valley Park. The land will also be offered to the town.

Teams join men's soccer league

Two new teams were officially welcomed into the Central Alberta Rural Towns senior soccer league last weekend.

Edson Shooters and the Parkland Canucks, who will play out of Stony Plain, join returning Drayton Valley Cesars Inn, Hinton, Whitecourt, Mayerthorpe, Sundance Strikers and Spruce Grove in the eight-team circuit.

League play commences Wednesday, May 15 with Cesars at Stony Plain, Spruce Grove at Parkland, Whitecourt at Mayerthorpe and Hinton at Edson. All four games have a 7 p.m. start.

The teams will play until June 26 when they take time off for holidays and resume play August 18.

"It's necessary to have the time off as a lot of the players are teachers", says league president Simon Kelly of Drayton Valley.

All eight teams qualify for the playoffs with the championship banquet to be staged in Drayton Valley September 28.

Cesars get their first taste of pre-season action Sunday at Lions Park when they host the Sundance Strikers in a 2 p.m. games.

Blake Little is Cesars' player-coach and Geir Rorstad is a new director. The team is still looking for players. Call Simon Kelly at 542-7146 for more information.

On the league scene, a weekend meeting held at Cesars Inn rejected an application from Grand Cache. The teams didn't like the extra travel. However, the eight teams will play exhibition and tournament games against Grand Cache who hope to join the circuit next season.

"I'm very optimistic about the upcoming season", Kelly remarked Monday.

"Both new teams are expected to be very competitive", Kelly added.

Defending champion Spruce Grove are expected to be the team to beat this season.

Theory clinic for coaches

A Level 1 coaches' theory clinic will be held Saturday and Sunday in Drayton Valley.

Jim Grammer, past president of the Alberta Baseball Association, will be the guest instructor for the two-day clinic to be held Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days in the Amoco Safety Hall.

Organizer John Sullivan expects at least 15 coaches to attend. The clinic is open to coaches, managers and officials from all sports as it's the National Coaching Certified Program that will be taught.

Teams who expect to enter provincials and anticipate inter-provincial play should take this NCCP course.

Board okays zero budget

St. Anthony school board approved a zero-increase budget for the 1985-86 school year at a special meeting April 25.

Revenues and expenditures for the last school year totalled $1,198,665.

The new budget comes in at $1,178,065.

The greatest factor in the reduced budget is that Building Quality Restoration Program (BQRP) grants are not as great as they were last year, said secretary-treasurer Joyce Murray.

Last year the grants, which are used to help finance building repairs, added up to more than $54,000 and this year the budget allows for $14,000.

An additional $23,000 for special education was budgeted for because a fulltime aide is now employed, Murray added.

Supplementary requisitions totalled $167,547 last year, with an estimated $165,373 to be received this year.

Alberta Education Grants amounted to $944,143 last year and are projected to be higher this year at $980,637.

The cost of transporting pupils amounted to $17,510 in the past year and is estimated to be $15,700 this year.

Operation and maintenance cost $202,819 last year and this year $142,492 was budgeted.

Elementary and junior high instruction amounted to $719,570 in the past year and is projected to be $777,497 this year.

RCMP numbers questioned

Due to decreasing crime statistics the number of RCMP members in Drayton Valley may be reduced.

A transportation committee report presented to town council last Thursday suggested that the number of RCMP members be reviewed following a move into their new quarters later in the year.

The transportation committee was asked to consider such a move upon receipt of a crime statistics report from Sgt. Les Banner-

man. Mayor Bob Mayhew made a suggestion at the April 16 transportation committee meeting to review the matter after the RCMP moved to new quarters, which are expected to be ready in August or September of this year.

New slowpitch league

Fourteen teams sign up

Fourteen teams have signed up to play in Drayton Valley's new slowpitch league.

The teams will play in a fun-league from May 15 to the end of June, then they will accept additional teams and continue playing during the months of July and August.

Stan Zimmerman, a recent newcomer to Drayton Valley, is league president. Zimmerman, supported by recreation director Dennis Woolsey, sees slowpitch expanding even further before the summer is over.

Teams who are confirmed to play in an organized league include the LDS Church, AGT, TransAlta, Kinsmen, Bankers, Mid-Continent Supply, Canadian Occidental, Norcen, Hospital, Warden Well Scoop Shovelers, Terry Industries, ERCB and two other teams still looking for a sponsor.

Interested players and teams can call Stan Zimmerman at 542-5020 for more information.

A great summer pastime in our area, weather and water conditions permitting, is canoeing.

The North Saskatchewan River is the best allround bet during the course of the seasons. It always seems to have enough water to keep the novice canoeist off the rocks. In fact, the North Saskatchewan River can be overwhelming unless you go into it armed with a certain amount of watercraft and knowledge.

Access is a little limited but afternoon trippers would do well leaving from the area south and east of Violet Grove. Day trippers could leave from a number of spots in the Amoco area southeast of Lodgepole. Another full day trip would be from the Drayton Valley bridge to the Genesee bridge. Weekenders often take the excellent trip from Rocky Mountain House to Drayton Valley.

If you're not much for rapids an enjoyable trip is from Drayton Valley to Devon. The river is quite gentle in this stretch and a lot of paddling is required.

Looking at other possibilities, the Pembina River is an obvious choice. The Pembina in summer is generally very low, so a lot of care is needed, especially in fiberglass canoes. An added bonus to the Pembina is the excellent pickerel fishing in its deep holes or creek mouths.

People canoeing with time limits should check around to find the right number of hours to paddle certain sections. The Pembina is so slow and winding it has thrown many people off their estimated time of arrival.

OUTDOORS

The last major river in our area is the Brazeau River downstream of the powerhouse. It is very unique and offers some excellent scenery that is unmatched in our area. As well as scenery, the Brazeau offers good fishing for pickerel, sauger, brown trout, goldeye, and rockies.

Sounds perfect? Not quite. The Brazeau is subject to complete control by TransAlta Utilities and as a result the water fluctuates up and down very rapidly. It is a sad situation to see sportsmen and fish alike trapped in an area because of ridiculously low water conditions. I, for one, would like to see TransAlta change their policies to provide a higher minimum output of water on the river. So until the power companies see fit to ease their stranglehold on our natural resources, canoeing and fishing is a hit-and-miss proposition on the Brazeau River.

If you are a novice canoeist in our area, take the time to practice the proper strokes, prys and draws, learn how to do a T-rescue and the proper way to use a throw bag. Then, go out and have a ball!

Janette DeJonge, Emmy Freier

Muffin makers marvelous

Janette DeJonge and Emmy Freier aren't household names in Drayton Valley just yet, but it shouldn't take long for their talents to become known.

DeJonge is a waitress and Freier is the cook at Ben's Meats and Delicatessen.

Unknown to the hundreds of customers who eat at Ben's six days a week, DeJonge and Freier are the people behind their excellent carrot, blueberry and bran muffins.

The recipe comes from DeJonge while Freier has been baking the muffins, between 15 and 20 dozen a week, for the past four years. Before that DeJonge prepared and baked her own muffin recipe.

According to waitress Peggy Miller, the carrot muffins are the most popular.

"People tell me we should start our own bakery," Miller explains.

"Many people come in early in the morning and take the muffins back to their office," Miller added.

The giant-size muffins, hot out of the oven, are available daily between 7:30 and 8 a.m.

People

If customers come into Ben's later in the day, the muffins are usually popped into the microwave and topped off with some butter.

Carrot cake is also available at Ben's.

One of the most appealing features available in Drayton Valley, which is part of the town's promotion, is their excellent selection of fine eating establishments and the variety of food. Add to that list Ben's carrot, blueberry and bran muffins.

Seniors' bingos doing well

By Belle Cahoon

Happy 80th birthday wishes to Bill Jones. He travelled to Ponoka and to Lethbridge where his children, grandchildren and great grandchildren had a surprise birthday party for him. There were more than 35 people in attendance.

I had my daughter Louise and her husband Al here on Sunday. They had their granddaughter with them.

We toured the town and they were impressed with the new living quarters for the senior citizens (where the old hospital wash; our lovely new hospital; the new Amoco building and several other new places. They now understand why I love Drayton Valley.

It was nice to receive a phone call from Grace Ayers, who used to live here and now resides in Wetaskiwin.

Get well wishes to Richard Clemmer who is still in the Misericordia Hospital.

Our bingos are doing well. We had a good turnout last Saturday.

The Fred Schippers are going to Victoria, B.C. for a holiday to visit their daughter and her family.

Florence Shaw has had her daughter Lorain Loberg staying with her to help her move to Edmonton, where she will be staying in Londonderry Village. Anyone is welcome to visit her.

Get well wishes to Bobby Agar who has been in the Drayton Valley hospital for a few days but is expected home soon.

Our pot luck supper was very good with a fair turnout. We missed some that were in the hospital.

Program to help farmers with finances

Did you ever notice how government and big business thrive on acronyms? Everyone is familiar with AADC or ADC for short (Alberta Agricultural Development Corporation), and RASIP (Range and Soil Improvement Program). There are lots of them.

I've got a new one to share with you — FMIP! That's Financial Management Incentive Program. This is a three-part program aimed at helping farmers analyze their business, improve their financial planning and record-keeping.

The first phase of the Financial Management Incentive Program (FMIP) is a financial consulting service. The farmer and the consultant analyze the farm operation, its productivity and its financial structure. The result is a series of recommendations which can improve the farm's profit.

The D.A. Column

by Doug Walkey
542-5368

We have had several farmers take part in the consulting program, all with very positive results. The consulting is, of course, highly confidential.

Phase 2 of FMIP will start in the fall. This will consist of a 12-day, in-depth course in farm business management. In addition, the instructor or district agriculturist will be making farm calls to the course participants to help them with applying what is taught in the course to their own farms. Enrollment will be limited.

Phase 3 will include our home economists. This program offers detailed assistance on record-keeping and related topics.

If you are interested in taking part in this program please contact our office at 542-5368.

No funds for airport

The Town of Drayton Valley plans to ask Alberta Transportation to take over the operation of their airport.

"We need a bigger budget," town manager Manny Deol told council last Thursday.

"We can't maintain things the way we should," he added.

According to Deol, this is the second time the town has approached Alberta Transportation about taking over the airport operation. Their first attempt was 2½ years ago, with the end result being told to do the best job possible.

The airport is used by oil field firms and also serves as a stop-over and refueling base for Calgary planes flying north.

ON MAY 4, OVER 9000 YOUNG PEOPLE WILL BE CLEANING UP ALBERTA'S HIGHWAYS.

Every year on a Saturday in May, a group of young Albertans make a special effort to clean up Alberta's highways.

Over 9000 members of our 4-H Clubs and Junior Forest Wardens will take part in removing the litter left along Alberta's roadsides by careless motorists. More than 7000 km of provincial primary highway right-of-way will be cleaned and about 54,000 refuse bags will be filled.

Saturday, May 4th, is the big day.*

Although these young people will be wearing safety vests and bright clothing and supervised by their parents and leaders, you, as the operator of a vehicle that day, must be extra cautious.

Watch out for our young volunteers! Look for the road signs!

Please do your part. Use extra care and caution. Drive safely while these young people are on our highways.

They'll be working hard all day to make sure Alberta's highways are clean, neat and tidy for the summer season ahead.

The very least we can do is make sure they all return home safely Saturday night.

Town resident upset with meter rentals

Leo Gamblin is upset with Drayton Valley's water meter rental system.

Gamblin appeared before town council last Thursday at which time he stated he was very unhappy with the $75 he had to pay to secure a water meter for his home.

He told council that he had lived at one residence in town for 25 years. It was when he moved six blocks that he had to pay the $75 water meter fee.

Town manager Manny Deol told council, "It's a town bylaw. It's for everyone."

The matter will be discussed at the May 14 transportation committee meeting and is scheduled to come back to council May 16 for a decision.

Deer feeding program over

An emergency deer feeding program introduced by the Alberta government in February is winding down as warmer weather allows the animals to begin foraging themselves.

Specially constructed feeders are now being brought in by Fish and Wildlife personnel in Drayton Valley and Evansburg as well in other areas where severe winter conditions hampered feeding and forced deer and elk to feed off hay supplies.

Elk herds had caused considerable damage to some local crops before the program was introduced.

"The whole program is winding down," Evansburg Fish and Wildlife officer Dan Boyco said Friday. With warmer, spring weather deer and elk are "spreading out and feeding on their own," he said.

"What gets hit on the hardest is the fetus the doe are carrying," he said. "But as far as the adults go, they seem to be doing all right."

Boyco said the feeders will be brought in and stored until they are required again.

The $585,000 emergency feeding program was approved mid-February by the provincial government to assist starving deer and elk in some of the worst areas in the province — including the Drayton Valley/Evansburg and Edson areas.

While Boyco said the program has "kept some deer alive" the true extent of damage caused by the early winter won't be known until fawning begins.

Traffic island to change

Changes are being considered for the traffic island on 50th Street and Industrial Road in Drayton Valley.

Deican Consultants, who have looked at the busy intersection, have suggested to the town's transportation committee that the island be reduced in size and made into a "right turn only" onto Industrial Road.

The consultants were asked to look at the island due to all the truck-traffic in the area.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES BOARD FOR THE PROVINCE OF ALBERTA NOTICE OF HEARING OF AN APPLICATION BY TRANSALTA UTILITIES CORPORATION TO CHANGE ELECTRIC RATES

TransAlta Utilities Corporation (TransAlta) has applied to the Public Utilities Board (the Board) for approval of new rates and changes in existing rates, charges or schedules for electric light, power or energy furnished by TransAlta to its customers in Alberta. The hearing of TransAlta's Application will commence at the Court House in the City of Calgary on May 15, 1985 at 9:30 a.m. At that time, the Board will hear TransAlta's application for interim refundable rates and will hold a pre-hearing conference to set dates for the continuation of these proceedings.

THE INCREASES REQUESTED

TransAlta requests approval of a 1985 forecast revenue requirement of $57,222,000 and has indicated that its current rates excluding the general rate rider will generate $55,155,000, a shortfall of $42,107,000 which it proposes to recover by adjustment of the rates charged to all customer classes. As of yet, TransAlta has not filed evidence in support of its request for approval of a 1985 forecast revenue requirement. TransAlta indicates the 1985 revenue increases are necessary to recover additional capital charges attributable to Keppells Unit No. 2 being in rate base for the full year 1985 and commissioning of new facilities, as well as increases in the forecast cost of capital income tax and operating expenses.

TransAlta has filed with its Application evidence in support of the forecast 1985 annual revenue requirement necessary to recover the above indicated increases. The evidence pertaining to the 1986 test year is forthcoming. After consideration of all filed material, and the evidence presented at the Hearings the Board may accept, reject or vary the revenue requirement for the years 1985 and 1986 requested by TransAlta.

Due to the length of the hearing process, it has become a practice for the Applicant to request an interim rate increase to begin recovering all or a part of its forecast shortfall in revenue requirements. In the present case, TransAlta is requesting a five percent increase applicable uniformly to all then existing rates except the energy charge of farm customers, such rates to become effective on June 1, 1985. This, if granted, would have the effect of reducing the forecast shortfall of $42,107,000 to $18,700,000. It should be noted that any interim rates that are approved will be reviewed by the Board in its final decision on the Application, and any overcollection would be refunded to the then existing customers.

TO SEE THE APPLICATION

Complete copies of the Application and Interim Application are available for inspection at the Board's offices in either Edmonton or Calgary. You may also arrange to examine or to obtain the Applications by contacting TransAlta at the address indicated below.

TO INTERVENE IN THE HEARING

If you wish to be registered as an Intervenor in these proceedings you must comply with the following procedure: Your Intervention must set out your name, your address, and the way in which this Application affects you. Your Intervention can be delivered or mailed to both the Board and to TransAlta's solicitors at the addresses listed below prior to your appearance at the Hearings. Alternatively, you may register your Intervention at the time of the Hearings. All persons who are registered as Intervenor will be entitled to receive from TransAlta copies of both the Application and the Interim Application, as well as the Company's evidence-in-chief in support of the Applications.

All persons who are registered as Intervenor will receive notice of the time and place of the continuation of these proceedings. If you do not file an intervention, the Board may proceed in your absence and you will not be entitled to further notice of these proceedings.

TO COMMENT INFORMALLY WITHOUT PARTICIPATING IN THE HEARING

If you wish, you may comment on the Application without becoming a formal Intervenor. Comments may be made in writing to the Board, clearly stating your views and any relevant information. Comments so received can only be used as evidence if the writer is prepared to present the letter at the Hearings and be available for cross-examination.

If you require further information regarding the hearing process contact the Public Utilities Board's offices as listed below.

TransAlta rates on hold

TransAlta Utilities has filed an application with the Alberta Public Utilities Board to hold existing rate levels. Customers will not experience an increase in their electric bills.

The dates for the hearings to review the rate application and the company's 1985 revenue requirement are expected to be set in the near future.

TransAlta's farm customers are benefiting from lower rates resulting from new regulations for the Alberta Electric Energy Marketing Agency. The Alberta government shielding the program continues to shield other customer groups from any increase as a result of the marketing agency's operations.

Project 100 adds challenge to school's curriculum

Education comes in a variety of forms which, especially for a child, makes it an interesting and challenging experience.

Teachers and staff at Breton Elementary took this premise last fall and created a unique project they used to help the school's kindergarten to Grade 6 students become more involved in the learning process and, as a special goal, raise money for the Alberta Children's Hospital Foundation.

That project, called simply 100 Days, culminated April 25 at an in-school extravaganza celebrating more than five months of student/teacher work which heightened student awareness and school spirit.

True to its namesake, the project evolved around the numerical figure 100. Students were asked to fulfill goals that incorporated the number into its requests, whether it was learning 100 new words, counting backwards from 100 or collecting 100 pictures of a certain animal.

"Our main goal was learning," the school's principal, Ron Toews said, adding the project was "another tool used towards student involvement, participation and communication."

As far as learning goes, the project "far exceeded" the school's expectation and Toews now expects the results to show in annual provincial tests this June.

The project was the brainchild of teachers Marg Soars and Chris Bauer, who developed the idea last fall while looking through education trade journals and magazines. The pair drew up a draft proposal and presented it to other teachers and the school's principal.

"They thought we were nuts at the time I think," Soars says of the day she and Bauer first presented the idea last October.

"What we did was put up a notice giving them (teachers) an idea of what we wanted," Soars said.

"Everyone agreed to it and we sat down and decided on the best way of going about it," Soars said. "And it just grew and grew."

"We thought it would be a learning experience for the children as well as a social thing for the school. Being a rural school, the children perhaps don't see each other as much socially as they could in the city."

"It's brought the school together...it's pulled us together."

"Some kids think 100 is a lot; some kids think 100 is small, now they can see just how much 100 of something is," Bauer says.

Incorporated into the school's curriculum, the project ran for 100 days, excluding weekends and holidays. During the course of the project,

DAYS

Project 100 was used as a "learning tool" to help students improve communication and participation.

students had to perform various tasks and as the tasks were completed, they were logged in a 100 Day Book located in each class.

Perhaps more than anything, the project challenged students to strive for and achieve certain goals.

For example, Bauer says, it gave students who normally don't read as much as other students an incentive.

"It meant something to them to have their story listed in that book," Bauer said.

In addition to such tasks as reading or learning one new word a day, students were also asked to donate one penny a day to the Northern Alberta Children's Hospital Foundation.

In all, the 100 Day Project raised more than $1,200 for the foundation.

"It's outstanding," said foundation executive director Donna Marie Artuso, who was on hand for the final day of the project Thursday.

"It exemplifies the kind of community involvement that it will take to get the children's hospital built."

"It's not like a school here, it's like a big family."

While organizers are more than satisfied with the outcome of the 100 Day Project, it probably won't be done again.

"We tend to do something every few years," Toews said, adding the school spirit generated from the 100 Day Project alone will carry the school and students "for the next few years."

Students from kindergarten to Grade 6 participated in the five-month project.

In a final-day extravaganza, students released hundreds of balloons to celebrate the project's completion.

Before you build in the country give AGT an early call

Call AGT as soon as you start the foundation of your summer cottage, acreage home, farm, rural business, or when you install your on-site mobile home or trailer.

Since all rural telephone lines are installed underground, we need time to make sure the cable is in place and ready to connect your service.

Be prepared to provide us with the legal land description of your property.

We're glad to answer your questions about country telephone service installation. For further information call your local AGT Business Office.

Money lender looking for business

Have you got an idea for a business?
But you can't arrange financing?
Then call the Alberta Opportunity Company (AOC). They are in the business of lending money to a new business idea.

The AOC treated more than 100 Drayton Valley businessmen to a luncheon at the Royal Canadian Legion last Wednesday.

Bob Chapman, chairman of the board for the Alberta Opportunity Company, told the large gathering, "Our company can be of assistance in the lending of money. We'd love to be able to assist in your future."

Jim Jensen, an AOC director from Edson told the luncheon audience, "The AOC has helped 4,000 borrowers since being formed in 1942. If you have an idea or a concept, we would welcome the opportunity to assist you."

"We don't wish to compete with the other lending institutions. We work with the chartered banks," Chapman added.

An AOC loans officer makes regular trips into the Drayton Valley area.

The company makes at least three stops in the province during the year, with their Drayton Valley visit resulting in a record turnout.

Where is everyone?

Mayor Bob Mayhew is concerned over the lack of attendance at committee meetings by elected representatives.

More specifically, the town's recreation board.

He told council last week that two town appointees were missing from the last recreation meeting and the county recreation director hadn't been to a meeting for some time.

Councillor Claire Carefoot made a motion that will see the administration draw up a policy for attendance on town appointed boards.

Spring values are popping up all over in the Classifieds.

Roy Delitzoy passed away at his home recently. Funeral services were held at the Breton Community Hall April 20. Sincere sympathy is extended to the Delitzoy family.

The Breton Junior High School students, teacher Jack Hiller, and parent Susan Keuch raised more than $500 for Steve Poyne's 'Journey for Lives' in their walk from Breton to Alisike and back. In addition, the Grade 7 class raised $86 in popcorn sales; Ted Bearchill of Teddy Bears Restaurant collected $145 and then personally matched this amount; the high school staff and parents donated a total of $180; and the Warburg high school donated $75. More than $1,000 has been given to cancer research in Edmonton which will be matched by our government. Congratulations to all who participated.

Watch for details of the following upcoming programs from FCSS and recreation co-ordinator: Tennis lessons, babysitter safety course, welding, co-ed aerobics, fly casting, and fashion for the fuller figure.

In addition an 'Essential Services' directory is being compiled for this area.

Anyone interested in sewing and who would like to have their articles displayed in a fashion show should get in touch with Jessica at the village office. A show is being planned for Lumber Jack Days.

Drayton Valley library request referred to Breton board

A Drayton Valley library request for financial assistance will be referred to the Breton regional recreation board, Leduc county councillors recently agreed.

After hearing 25 per cent of monies allocated to regional recreation boards from a provincial community and recreation grant are directed to a 'culture' category, Coun. Albert Klapsstein said. "Once we allocate funding, we allocate responsibility. This request should be forwarded to the Breton regional."

About $28,000 was assigned to the board through the grant, Leduc county recreation director Beverlee Parker confirmed Monday.

A spokesman from the Drayton Valley Library Board addressed council in November, seeking about $2,900 in financial aid. The figure represented the county's 4.8 per cent of a proposed user fee split with the town of Drayton Valley and the counties of Parkland and Wetaskiwin, to cover a projected 1985 deficit of $61,000.

Clarke doesn't mind taking a few gambles

By Peter Meade

Brian Patrick Clarke

Actors sometimes have to gamble and no one knows that better than Brian Patrick Clarke. About three years ago he was offered a role on daytime's "General Hospital." His agents urged him to turn it down.

"They felt it was a step backward," explains Clarke, who had already been a regular on two nighttime series — the short-lived "Delta House" and "Eight Is Enough." "But I felt that my career was in trouble, so I took the gamble."

Clarke's stint at "General Hospital" turned out to be considerably more than he had bet on.

Take the eight months the handsome Yale graduate spent portraying two characters. It was enough just to play Grant Andrews, whom Clarke refers to as "Mr. All American Nice Guy." Switching back and forth between Grant Andrews and evil look-alike Grant Putnam was exhausting.

"It was originally only supposed to last one month," Clarke says. "Then I was two. I was glad when the other guy was put in the nut house. I just hope he stays there — forever."

But Clarke doesn't plan to stick around "General Hospital" quite that long. When 1985 ends, Clarke says, so will his three years on daytime television. He's ready to gamble again.

"I'm antsy," admits the Gettysburg, Pa., native, who now lives outside Los Angeles with his wife Kaye and their 5-year-old son, Cary Ryan. "I'm ready to compete for other roles."

One thing Clarke isn't considering is a switch from daytime to nighttime soap.

"They're not what I want to do," he explains. "I want a two- or three-person show where I have to carry more of the ball. I'd like to do a comedy, but there aren't a lot of possibilities since my type of comedy isn't a sitcom. It's sophisticated comedy."

"Who knows. I may be unemployed. Now that would be the ultimate challenge."
